To whom it may concern:

This letter is written to confirm Hewitt-Washington's recommendation for JC Patin Group LLC for construction management or other construction services related to residential and commercial works. JC Patin has performed for Hewitt-Washington over the years and has worked with us on several projects, including works of historical significance.

The most recent project was the complete selective demolition, restoration, and addition to the Warren Easton High School medical clinic. JC Patin was also involved in the completion of the restoration of the historic Dryades Street YMCA branch public library, which was originally built between 1905 and 1915 by utilizing funds from philanthropist Andrew Carnegie. JC Patin and Cedric Patin continue to be a topnotch source of high construction standards. They are knowledgeable and always willing to work as part of a team. Hewitt-Washington presently works with JC Patin, and we will continue to work with them in the future. We also consider them an excellent source for any future projects, whether it be for construction or consultation.
